SCAD Polytechnic College Strengthens Technical Foundations Through Skill Training for First-Year Students

SCAD Polytechnic College organized a specialized Skill Training Program for first-year students on 10 December 2025 at the college campus, with the aim of enhancing students' technical knowledge and practical skills in the field of electrical engineering. The program was designed to provide early exposure to industry-relevant tools and methodologies, helping students build a strong foundation for their future studies.

The training sessions focused on key topics from the Electrical and Electronics Engineering (EEE) department, including Simulation Level 2, Estimating & Costing, and E-CAD Level 2. Through simulation-based learning, students gained hands-on experience in analyzing electrical circuits and understanding system behavior in a virtual environment.

The Estimating & Costing module introduced students to project planning, material estimation, and cost calculation methods commonly used in electrical works. Additionally, E-CAD Level 2 training enabled students to develop skills in preparing professional electrical drawings and layouts using computer-aided design tools.

The program successfully bridged theoretical concepts with practical applications, reflecting SCAD Polytechnic College's commitment to skill-oriented education and holistic student development.
